Old Business:

Board started reviewing the options for the Deerfield master plan survey that would be sent to the residents of the town. Board along with other people in attendance, went over the questions that would be asked, the outline of it, and the general terminology of the survey. It was suggested a committee be utilized to review and make recommendations on changes to the master plan instead of the planning board. It was determined that instead of a public advertisement meeting scheduled in May to go over the master plan, that the committee of volunteers go over the survey and give the recommendations to the planning board, then the survey would be sent out. Deborah will start making calls to individuals to get a committee together. She will also make some adjustments to the draft survey. This survey will then be presented to the board for review and further adjustment.
